Charge point management

#1 EVSE ID is displayed on a QR Code image

Target users: System users

Product: EVC-net

Current situation

When you print a QR code for a charging point, you want to know which QR code belongs to which Charging point. Previously, the QR code image does not include any ID. That was not handy.

Implemented solution

Now, every QR code image comes with EVSE ID and/or Physical ID. It's useful when you print the code and attach it to the right charging point.

Where is this feature?

Charging Points > Search > A charging point profile > Data Tab > Channels > QR

The screenshot shows the 'Last Mile Solutions' web interface. A modal window titled 'QR code' is displayed over a charging point profile page. The modal contains a QR code and a red box highlighting the EVSE ID '1642047' printed below it. The background page shows the 'Data' tab for a charging point profile, with a table of channels at the bottom. The table has columns for Channel, Profile, EVSE ID, Subject, Physical ID, Meter ID, ODS code, Reg. meter, Connector, Current, Voltage, Max. power, Signature public key, QR-code search term, QR code, and QR. The first row shows a channel with EVSE ID 'NLLMSE1404D41' and QR code 'contaminatou...'. The second row shows a channel with EVSE ID 'REG-01196-T2' and QR code '1642047', which is highlighted with a red box.

Channel	Profile	EVSE ID	Subject	Physical ID	Meter ID	ODS code	Reg. meter	Connector	Current	Voltage	Max. power	Signature public key	QR-code search term	QR code	QR
1		NLLMSE1404D41					REG-02196-T2	AC 1415A	200 V	4 kW		1642047	contaminatou...
2		NLLMSE1404D41					REG-01196-T2	AC 1415A	200 V	11 kW		1642047	contaminatou...

#5 Verify email when users change their emails

Target users: All customers (Company, Employee, End users)

Product: EVC-net

Current situation

Previously, when an existing user changed their email address, there was no verification if the email was valid.

Implemented solution

Now, after a user changes their email, the system sends a verification code to the new email address, which needs to be verified on the EVC-net to complete the change process.

In case a system user wants to update the customer's email address on behalf of your customer, the verification code will be sent to the new email address. Be prepared to obtain it directly from your customer.
